Development of North Chilean Archaeology

Guillermo Focacci Aste (1922–2000) defined several of the archaeological phases in northern Chilean archaeology, and trained a large number of students in the field. While there have been short obituary notices in various journals, Luis Álvarez Miranda, editor of Revista Diálogo Andino, the archaeological series of the Universidad de Tarapacá in Chile, has provided a more detailed analysis of his contributions. Álvarez has two short articles 'Homenaje a Guillermo Focacci Aste' and 'Bocetos Biográficos de Guillermo Focacci Aste' in the issue which became available last year.
